INTRODUCTION.

THIS is the fourth part, or great division—the so-called SALĀYATANA-VAGGO—of the Saṃyutta-nikāya. It fills 80 palm leaves—from ṭr to ṭr (=167-247)—in the Singhalese MS. of Copenhagen, and 96—from dhū to nu (=214-310)—in that of Paris; on other side, 132—from ka to ṭa:—in the Burmese MS. of Paris, and 112—from ka to ñi—in another which it will be later spoken of.

I.

This great division consists of 10 Saṁyuttas, entitled: 1 Saḷāyatana; 2 Vedanā; 3 Mātugāma; 4 Jambukhādaka; 5 Sāmaṇḍaka; 6 Moggalāna; 7 Citta; 8 Gāmani; 9 Asaṅkhata; 10 Avyākata; and which must bear, in the full series, the numbers XXXV.-XLIV. Upon each of them a few remarks are to be made successively.

1. Saḷāyatana-S. (XXXV.). This opening Saṃyutta, which gives its name to the whole division, as it was the case for the preceding sections—the Nidāna- and Khandha-vaggos—is very extensive, since it performs almost the half of the whole. The sum of the individual texts or Suttas I found, after some hesitation, to be 207.

This mass of texts is distributed into four paññāsakas (fifties), whose each contains or ought to contain five vaggos or chapters; and, at the end of every paññāsaka, its recapitulating uddāna comes always after that of the fifth or last chapter. So, at least, in the Burmese MSS.; but it is not the same at all with the Singhalese MSS., which neither fully admit nor reject this division and are somewhat inconsistent. In these, the fifth chapter is indeed accompanied by the mention pathamo paññāsako, but the following ones, instead of being numbered, the first, second . . . fifth of the second paññāsaka, are styled fifth, sixth . . . tenth of the "first hundred," and even this mention is to be found in the MS. of Copenhagen only. The remnant chapters are numbered—when they are so—generally with respect to the division into fifties, and the ending mention of the last chapter is catuttha-paññāsaka; nevertheless, this mode of dividing is by no means accurately pointed out as it is in the Burmese MSS.

Another and more serious difficulty arises as to the reckoning of the Suttas. Each paññāsaka ought to have 5 vaggos or chapters and each vaggo 10 suttas; but the total of the vaggos is found to be 19 instead of 20. The three first paññāsaka exhibit indeed 15 vaggos and 154 suttas, which is sufficiently correct; but the trouble appears in the fourth paññāsaka, which has only 8 vaggos, where the second is merely entitled saṭṭhi-peyyāla; and the Burmese MSS. add the mention: Suttantāni saṭṭhi. These 60 suttantāni are certainly the matter of more than one chapter; and, by them, the four fifties (paññāsaka) would raise up to 247 texts. Ought not this peyyāla to be lessened? I thought so. There are five terms—chanda, atīta, yadanicca, ajjhatta, bāhira—which can be considered in several ways. They give indeed a total of sixty; but, by joining together many of them, the 18 of chanda, as well as of atīta and yadanicca, can be reduced to 6 (=18), ajjhatta and bāhira to 1 (=2); and the whole falls to 20 suttas, corresponding exactly to two chapters. And we are authorised to count this peyyāla for two chapters by the fact that the last vaggo—which is really the fourth section—is called the fifth (pañcamo) in the Burmese MSS., no number being applied to the third. It nevertheless must be noticed that this last vaggo, the pañcamo of the Burmese MSS., is styled sattamo (seventh) in the Singhalese ones. If this word sattamo is not a fault for samatto, we are compelled to admit that these MSS. equal the saṭṭhi-peyyāla to three chapters; and they can maintain that they are right. The conclusion is that our MSS. are very entangled for the reckoning of the Suttas in the fourth paññāsaka. The system I have adopted seems to be the most agreeing to the usage, to the peculiarities of the text, and to the arithmetic. How could 4 times 50 be 250?

2. Vedanā-S. (XXXVI.). This Saṃyutta consists of three chapters. The first of them, entitled Sagātha-vaggo, because its six first texts contain some verses, is once more an example of the inconvenience which results from the application of the same names to different things. We have a great Sagātha-vaggo, the first chief division of the whole compilation, and a little one, the first chapter of the Vedanā-Saṃyutta.

The uddāna of the third vaggo seems to enumerate 10 suttas ending by Suddhikañca nirāmisaṃ; but a Suddhika sutta is not to be found. Is suddhika another name or an epithet of nirāmisa? Either has a sutta been lost? Be as it may, this chapter has only 9 texts, and the whole saṃyutta 29.

3. Mātugāma-S. (XXXVII.). This saṃyutta, which deals with the advantages and disadvantages, qualities and faults of the women, is distinguished by a special economy. The four first suttas constitute a whole and are indeed a chapter, although not pointed out as such. Then Anuruddha intervening puts a question to which the Buddha answers by a series of explanations divided into Kaṇhapakkha (dark or unfavourable side) and Sukkapakkha (white or favourable side), each of 10 sections. But in the Singhalese MSS., the first explanation of each other side, given at first to Anuruddha, is repeated to the Bhikkhus, to whom the remnant discourses are delivered, as if Anuruddha had disappeared. This part of the saṃyutta forms two chapters which are not distinctly settled (they are also styled peyyāla) and are likely adulterated outside by some disorder, whose evidence seems to be borne by the disagreement of the MSS. A subjoined third chapter (tatiyo vaggo), of ten suttas, brings up the total to 34—the 4 overplus being those which precede the intervention of Anuruddha.

4, 5. Jambukhādaka-Sāmaṇḍaka-S. (XXXVIII.-XXXIX.). These two Saṃyuttas differ only by the names of person and place; they hold sixteen suttas in one chapter. All the MSS. give only the beginning and the end of the Sāmaṇḍaka, called Sāmañcaka in the Singhalese ones.

6. Moggalāna-S. (XL.). This Saṃyutta is said to consist of eleven suttas, whose the tenth—Sakko—is a conversation between the Buddha and the king of the gods. The eleventh is the same conversation—no repeated—between the Buddha and a son of god, Candana. Now we are told that this same conversation was kept with four other sons of gods. It therefore would be fit, I think, to count 15 suttas, but the uddāna does not admit more than 11. I note the five last by the little cyphers, i.-v.

7, 8. Citta-Gāmaṇi-S. (XLI.-XLII.). Upon these two Saṃyuttas, it is only to be said that they contain, in one chapter, the first 10, the second 13 suttas, generally longer than in the other saṃyuttas, especially those of the Gāmani, where several texts have not the same titles in the Singhalese and in the Burmese MSS.

9. Asaṅkhata-S. (XLIII.). The arrangement of this Saṃyutta is very particular. The whole subject seems to be condensated in the 11 suttas of a "first chapter" (pathamo vaggo), which is said—by the Burmese MSS.—to be that of the Nibbāna-saṃyutta. Now what is the second chapter? Nowhere any mention of it is to be found. Under the title asaṅkhata, the text takes again the 11 sections of the "first chapter," with development, giving, for instance, four articles to the Iddhipāda, five to the Indriya, etc. The total of these articles is XLIV.; and they are or ought to be repeated under 32 other titles, whose the last is Pārāyana, and which all seem to be other names of Nibbāna. What is therefore, I ask again, the second chapter? The series Asaṅkhata—Pārāyana? In this case, there would be two chapters only and 44 (11+33) suttas in the Saṃyutta. Or rather the XLIV. articles of the asaṅkhata section? In this case, the number of the chapters would be equal to that of the heading terms, viz., to 33 added to the "first" one; but the XLIV. articles of each term ought to be considered as so many suttas, and the total of these would thus amount to 1463, including the 11 texts of the so-called pathamo vaggo. It might be that this be the true reckoning, but I preferred the first. I have given the hypothetic title dutiyo vaggo to the texts coming after the pathamo and distinguished the 33 terms by the Arabic ciphers 13–44, and the XLIV. articles by Roman ciphers, adding between ( ) the numbers of the 33 aforesaid terms and some titles referring to many groups as Iddhipādā, Indriyāni, Balāni, etc.

10. Avyākata-S. (XLIV.). The tenth and last Saṃyutta contains 11 suttas in one chapter; 9 of whom are otherwise styled in the Singhalese and the Burmese MSS.

I sum up here the series of the Saṃyuttas:

Numbers	Titles	Vaggos	Suttas
1. XXXV.	Saḷāyatana-S.	19 (or 22?)	207 (or 247?)
2. XXXVI.	Vedanā-S.	3	29
3. XXXVII.	Mātugāma-S.	3	34
4. XXXVIII.	Jambukhādaka-S.	1	16
5. XXXIX.	Sāmaṇḍaka-S.	1	16
6. XL.	Moggalāna-S.	1	11
7. XLI.	Citta-S.	1	10
8. XLII.	Gāmaṇi-S.	1	13
9. XLIII.	Asankhata-S.	2 (or 34?)	44 (or 1463?)
10. XLIV.	Avyākata-S.	1	11
	Total	33	391

But if we should count 247 suttas in the Saḷāyatana and 1,463 in the Asaṅkhata,—what the text seems to permit—if not require,—this total would amount to 1,850 suttas.

In some texts of greater extent, I distinguished the different parts by Roman ciphers; but I did not make a large use of this proceeding.

II.

My means for establishing the text have been seriously increased by the getting of a second Burmese MS., which is mine, and I note B². The use of a single MS. of this kind was indeed insufficient; I wanted to control it by some other of the same origin. This opportunity is now afforded to me, and I could state that, as I presumed, the abbreviations do not differ essentially between each other. Therefore, the Singhalese MSS., on one side, and the Burmese, on the other, have respectively their special and peculiar mode of abridging. For the remainder, the agreement, although usual, is somewhat altered by some differences more frequent than I expected. My MS. is sometimes with the Singhalese ones against its similar; sometimes it affords readings of its own. For instance, in the enumeration of devatā in the tenth sutta of the Gāmani-S., it adds the vatthudevatā, that are not to be found in any other MS. In short, the discrepancy between the two Burmese MSS. is greater, it seems, than between the two Singhalese ones.

Unfortunately, this MS. is not in a very good condition. Many sheets are mutilated, several missing; these are, in this part of the work, ga-gā (=25, 26) and ṅe-ṅai (=55, 56). I must add that it contains only the second half of the compilation, viz., the Saḷāyatana- and Mahā-vaggos. Although very carefully written, the blunders are not scarce; and it belonged once to an owner who made in it several corrections or remarks with the pencil; but this was not assuredly the good man who sold it to me after having brought it directly from Burma.

Beside this, no new help happened to me. I had not at my disposal the commentary of the Saṃyutta-nikāya, the so-called Säratthapakāsinī. I could not accede to the Singhalese MS. which I noted S², and which is that of the British Museum in London. The MSS. which I used are therefore:

S¹, the Singhalese MS. of Copenhagen
S³, the Singhalese MS. of Paris (Bibl. nat.)
B¹, the Burmese MS. of Paris (id. id.)
B², the Burmese MS. belonging to me.

III.

The notes put at the foot of the pages refer strictly, as in the preceding volumes, to the various readings of the MSS. Any remark of other kind could not make appearance among them, because either the task would prove incomplete, or the place invaded would be excessive. Nor can I, for the same reason, produce such remarks in this Introduction; they require a special treatise. But I think I must, by exception, point out here the story of Puṇṇa related in the 88th sutta of the Saḷāyatana-Saṃyutta: it corresponds closely to a part of the "Légende de Purṇa," translated more than fifty years ago by Eugéne Burnouf in his "Introduction," and of which the text is to be found in the more recently issued edition of the Divya-Avadāna of Professor Cowell (vide pages 37–39). It is a very interesting coincidence.

IV.

As for the preceding sections, three indices have been added at the end of this volume; the first to the proper names; the second to the titles of the Suttas; the third to the beginning of the gāthās scattered in several Samyuttas.
